

VARSITY STUNNED BY BITTER DEFEAT

Undergraduates Not Yet Recovered From Severe Drubbing Given Their Team by Virginia Military Institute Eleven.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
 Charlottesville, Va., October 23.—Virginia undergraduates have not yet recovered from the severe drubbing administered to their football team by the Virginia Military Institute eleven on yesterday, and to-day they are inquiring into the cause for the rout. In Virginia's entire football history, perhaps, no Orange and Blue eleven has gone through an entire half without making a single first down, as was the case yesterday. And Virginia has played such teams as Princeton, Pennsylvania, the Navy, Carlisle Indians, Georgetown, Swarthmore and others of like prominence in the football world.

In the opinion of a former Virginia athlete, the management of the team should lose no time in getting the services of a professional coach to find out just what is the trouble. At the opening of the season it was stated that no such material had been at Virginia in the past five years. This being true, there must be something radically wrong in the coaching department. In the last three games played the eleven has displayed no defense worthy of the name. The Hampden-Sydney, South Carolina and Virginia Military Institute backfield men simply rumped at will around the ends and through Virginia's giant forwards. The team was hard pressed to score two points against the little Hampden-Sydney eleven one week ago, while on last Monday Captain Von Kolnitz and Quarter Back Heywood ran rings around the Orange and Blue, carrying the ball for a total of 125 yards. The Virginia players seemed totally unable to break up the difference and the big gains were made by Von Kolnitz and Heywood. Virginia was lucky to get off without having her goal line crossed at Monday.

WASHINGTON AND LEE IS WEAK ON DEFENSE

Defects Show Up in Game With St. Johns, and Coaches Will Seek to Apply Remedy.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
 Lexington, Va., October 20.—The showing of Washington and Lee in the St. Johns game was not altogether satisfactory. While the offensive work showed marked improvement, there was a weakness on defensive play that it will be the work of the coaches from now on to remedy. The game was close, and only until the last half was well gone did Washington and Lee succeed in solving St. Johns' offense and strengthening its own.

The visitors worked the most successful series of forward passes seen here this year, scoring their second touchdown by a beautiful long pass to the left end, who ran thirty yards. Their first score came early in the game, when Washington and Lee fumbled on the twenty-yard line, St. Johns recovering a fake quarter back run and putting the ball over.

Washington and Lee scored in the first three minutes of play, Miles making a long forward pass to Peoples, who put the ball into the thirty-yard line. It took only three or four line plunges to put the ball over. Raftery wriggled through the line for the second touchdown just as the half ended. While the score tied, Raftery carried the ball over in the third quarter on a long end run, and a few minutes later Raftery secured a drop kick from the thirty-yard line.

After the first half Washington and Lee successfully intercepted every effort of St. Johns to forward pass, except one, which gained but little. Raftery resisted to strategy football throughout, mixing line plunges and long end runs with a few attempts at forward pass.

Raftery was the most consistent ground runner, and was never overtaken for a loss. Raftery played a stellar game, and his returning of punts was sensational. Edwards played a great defensive game, time after time breaking up the strategy of the Orange and Blue. Practically no gains at all were made through the line, which held like a stone wall throughout the game. Captain Miller was a tower of strength on the defense, and it was largely through the openings he made in the opposing line that the plunges were successful. Miles started the game with a long end run, which broke through and got the man with the ball. Francis at end, was in every play, his work on the defense being of the highest order. Ponder was a great punter, and his new position at full back having been swifter from full back Raftery returned to the game.

The victory is now in the fettle to make the schedule, no one being out on account of injuries. Three weeks away is the game with V. P. I., and it is the ambition of Coach Reilly to have the team at its greatest strength at that time. On next Saturday victory meets the strong Wake Forest team, and following them, Davidson. Both of these Carolina teams have been held North Carolina to a very close score.

Washington and Lee supporters feel gratified over the score of the Georgetown game, especially when, in comparison with the decisive drubbing given North Carolina A. and M. by the Orange and Blue, the respect of Washington and Lee for the Carolina eleven, for it is a long time off to turkey day, when the two teams meet in Norfolk.

Washington and Lee scored in the first three minutes of play, Miles making a long forward pass to Peoples, who put the ball into the thirty-yard line. It took only three or four line plunges to put the ball over. Raftery wriggled through the line for the second touchdown just as the half ended. While the score tied, Raftery carried the ball over in the third quarter on a long end run, and a few minutes later Raftery secured a drop kick from the thirty-yard line.

After the first half Washington and Lee successfully intercepted every effort of St. Johns to forward pass, except one, which gained but little. Raftery resisted to strategy football throughout, mixing line plunges and long end runs with a few attempts at forward pass.

Raftery was the most consistent ground runner, and was never overtaken for a loss. Raftery played a stellar game, and his returning of punts was sensational. Edwards played a great defensive game, time after time breaking up the strategy of the Orange and Blue. Practically no gains at all were made through the line, which held like a stone wall throughout the game. Captain Miller was a tower of strength on the defense, and it was largely through the openings he made in the opposing line that the plunges were successful. Miles started the game with a long end run, which broke through and got the man with the ball. Francis at end, was in every play, his work on the defense being of the highest order. Ponder was a great punter, and his new position at full back having been swifter from full back Raftery returned to the game.

The victory is now in the fettle to make the schedule, no one being out on account of injuries. Three weeks away is the game with V. P. I., and it is the ambition of Coach Reilly to have the team at its greatest strength at that time. On next Saturday victory meets the strong Wake Forest team, and following them, Davidson. Both of these Carolina teams have been held North Carolina to a very close score.

Washington and Lee supporters feel gratified over the score of the Georgetown game, especially when, in comparison with the decisive drubbing given North Carolina A. and M. by the Orange and Blue, the respect of Washington and Lee for the Carolina eleven, for it is a long time off to turkey day, when the two teams meet in Norfolk.

Washington and Lee scored in the first three minutes of play, Miles making a long forward pass to Peoples, who put the ball into the thirty-yard line. It took only three or four line plunges to put the ball over. Raftery wriggled through the line for the second touchdown just as the half ended. While the score tied, Raftery carried the ball over in the third quarter on a long end run, and a few minutes later Raftery secured a drop kick from the thirty-yard line.

LACK OF PUNTING UNDER NEW RULES

First Games Show Kicking Feature of Sport Almost Eliminated.

Washington, October 20.—Punters are likely to be put out of their jobs if the first football games of the season can be said to accurately forecast the action of the new rules.

From all over the country there is agreement on this point in connection with the radically changed regulations—punting has virtually been eliminated.

New teams can keep the ball and make gains, hence there is no reason to surrender it by a punt. Instead, there is recourse to the forward pass, which means big gains if it works, and should it fail, carries no penalty severer than a lost down, unless, of course, the ball should be clearly caught by the enemy and be carried for a big gain.

This lack of punting may be said to be the most notable change worked by the new rules. It was a reform that was desired, for in the last few years the defense had gained strength to a point where the offense had little chance to make consistent progress against a team of anywhere near its own caliber. Hence, there was a constant use of the punt. Two tries, a petty gain and then a punt. That was the game.

The football authorities sought to do away with this condition. They weakened the defense. The forward pass was made legal anywhere on the field and the number of downs was increased from three to four.

The removal of these restrictions on the forward pass makes it a play that is likely to be used all the time, and compels the team on defense to play a more open game in order to guard against a surprise.

With the defense thus opened, there is a better chance for fleet backs to run the ends, or for heavy plunging backs to take the line for small gains. The added downs makes this style of play the more successful, since with four chances to make ten yards, the comparatively small average of only two and one-half yards to a plunge suffice to hold the ball.

During the three or four last seasons the coaches ran around breathless to find punners, and to develop their distance kicking ability.

Now the punt comes so comparatively seldom that the importance of the punter is much reduced. The abolition of the onside kick also does away to a large extent with the need for a man who can punt accurately.

Only for the field goal kicker is there still a strong demand, and unless later changes bring some change, it is likely that in this department the use of the skilled toe will have its best development.

Washington, October 20.—Harry Costello, Georgetown's famous football player, may be used at quarter back in the Indiana game, according to reports received to-day. The great half back was used at quarter in the Carolina A. and M. game, owing to Calman's injury, and did so well that he may be used there for the remainder of the season. Pury and Murray being used in the backfield with White, Dunn and Van Dyne.

Georgetown to-day began hard preparation for the Indiana game, going through a stiff practice this morning. To-morrow the team will be plunged into a period of hard work with the chance of being rested up on Thursday and Friday. It is expected that the eleven will be taken away for a couple of days after the gruelling work is through for the final touches before the team meets the Indians.

To-morrow, Tuesday and Wednesday will be spent in stiff scrimmage work, all of the men reporting in good shape after the Carolina game. The line men appear to be holding up their end to advantage. Barton, Mullane and Mortality with Hill, making up a center trio that will prove impregnable. Ritch is to be taught more aggressiveness and instructed in noting as centre on defense, which weakness cropped out in the Raleigh game.

In the backfield, the men are ready at a moment's notice. Dave White, Jim Dunn, "Tuck" Pury, Freddy Murray and Harry Costello report in the best of shape, while Campbell is recovering from injuries received against Washington and Lee. Van Brocklin is getting along nicely, but is not in the line as yet. The team may be unable to get into the Indiana game.

Washington, October 20.—Harry Costello, Georgetown's famous football player, may be used at quarter back in the Indiana game, according to reports received to-day. The great half back was used at quarter in the Carolina A. and M. game, owing to Calman's injury, and did so well that he may be used there for the remainder of the season. Pury and Murray being used in the backfield with White, Dunn and Van Dyne.

Georgetown to-day began hard preparation for the Indiana game, going through a stiff practice this morning. To-morrow the team will be plunged into a period of hard work with the chance of being rested up on Thursday and Friday. It is expected that the eleven will be taken away for a couple of days after the gruelling work is through for the final touches before the team meets the Indians.

To-morrow, Tuesday and Wednesday will be spent in stiff scrimmage work, all of the men reporting in good shape after the Carolina game. The line men appear to be holding up their end to advantage. Barton, Mullane and Mortality with Hill, making up a center trio that will prove impregnable. Ritch is to be taught more aggressiveness and instructed in noting as centre on defense, which weakness cropped out in the Raleigh game.

RICHMOND TEAM WINS GREAT GAME

Victory Over New Hampshire Means Championship of North Atlantic Fleet.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
 Norfolk, Va., October 20.—Five thousand people saw the football team of the battleship Michigan win the gridiron championship of the North Atlantic fleet by defeating the eleven from the battleship New Hampshire 12 to 0 at St. Helena Station this afternoon.

It was a great contest throughout the sixty minutes the game lasted. It is estimated that $5,000 was wagered on the game by the supporters of the two teams.

GIRL ELOPES; MOTHER, TOO.

Parent First to Be Wed Means Daughter on Way to Home Minister.
 Wilmington, Del., October 20.—Mrs. Minnie Crowther Scott, aged thirty-five, a widow, of 807 New Willow Street, Trenton, N. J., was married yesterday to Isaac Holt, aged thirty-six, a railroad engineer, also of Trenton, by the Rev. George J. Wolfe. After the ceremony the couple went to the home of Mrs. Scott, where they met Miss Elizabeth Scott, the nineteen-year-old daughter of the bride, and Harry Beatty, twenty-three, a telegrapher.

"What are you doing here, dear?" asked the astonished mother. "Why, what are you doing here, dear?" asked the astonished mother. "Why, what are you doing here, dear?" asked the astonished mother. "Why, what are you doing here, dear?" asked the astonished mother.

The mother was the first to regain her composure. She laughingly replied: "We have just been married by Mr. Wolfe."

"That's just where we are going for the same purpose," answered the daughter.

The mother did not protest. She said: "All right, we will wait at the railroad station for you and return to Trenton together." The younger couple then went to the minister's residence, where they, too, were united. The couples returned to Trenton together late this afternoon.

PUBLIC SPEAKING DATES

The following appointments are announced from State Democratic headquarters:
 Richmond, October 22 (afternoon).
 Wytheville, October 22 (afternoon).
 Salisbury, October 22 (night).
 Buchanan, October 22 (barbecue).
 Bristol, October 22 (night).
 Cleveland, October 22 (barbecue).
 Petersburg, October 22.
 Harrisonburg, October 22.
 Salisbury, October 22.
 Long Hollow, October 22 (barbecue).
 Roanoke, October 22 (night).
 Richmond, City Auditorium, October 22.
 Harrisonburg, October 22.
 Rockingham, October 22 to 24.
 Page County, October 22, 23 and 24.
 Clarke County, October 22 and 23.
 Appomattox, October 22.
 Pinesville, October 22.
 Buchanan, October 22.
 Staunton, October 22.
 Warm Springs, October 22.
 Hill Springs, October 22 (night).
 Williamsburg, October 22.
 Milboro, October 22 (night).
 Rensselaer, October 22.
 Lexington, November 4.
 Luray, October 22.
 Lawrenceville, October 22.
 Harrisonburg, October 22.
 Madison, October 22.
 J. Gordon Buchanan.
 Boydton, October 22.
 Perthshire, October 22.
 Palmyra, October 22.
 E. R. Ryd.
 Dilwyn, October 22 (night).
 Arvonia, October 22 (night).
 Palmyra, October 22.
 Boydton, October 22.
 Accomac, October 22.
 Eastville, October 22.
 Bland, October 22.
 Pearisburg, October 22.
 Charles City, October 22.
 Norman R. Hamilton.
 Courthouse, October 22 (barbecue).
 Fairmount Park, October 22 (night).
 Dilwyn, October 22.
 Arvonia, October 22 (night).
 Centenary, October 22.
 Westmoreland, October 22.
 Richmond County, November 4.
 Herndon, November 4.
 Manassas, October 22.
 Charlotte Courthouse, October 22, 12 noon.
 Red Oak, October 22, 11 A. M.
 Willsboro, October 22, 9 P. M.
 South Boston, October 22, 1:30 P. M.
 Keyville, October 22, 2 P. M.
 Harry M. George Tucker.
 Boydton, October 22.
 Richmond, City Auditorium, October 22.
 Pochontas, October 22 (night).
 Tazewell, October 22 (afternoon).
 Thomas S. Martin.
 Appomattox, October 22.
 Manassas, October 22.
 Palmyra, October 22.
 Tappahannock, October 22.
 Westmoreland, October 22.
 Chatham, October 22.
 Richmond, City Auditorium, October 22.
 Princess Anne Courthouse, October 22.
 Long Hollow, Smyth County, October 22 (barbecue).
 Russell County, October 22.
 Courthouse, October 22.
 Burke, November 2.
 Luray, October 22.
 Standardsville, Greene County, October 22.
 Wytheville, October 22.
 Salem, October 22 (night).
 Wakefield, October 22, 9 P. M.
 J. TAYLOR ELLYSON, Chairman.
 J. N. Brennan, Secretary.

DIES OF SCARE EXPOSURE

Man Who Leaped From Hospital Window Victim of Paranoia.
 Wilmington, Del., October 20.—Frightened by an insane patient in the same ward in the Delaware Hospital, John R. Lee, colored, aged fifty-five, jumped from a window of the institution one night two weeks ago and suffered around in the cold in Bransford Park for several hours before he went to the home of a friend for shelter. He contracted pneumonia and last night he was found dead in the Salvation Army barracks at Second and French Streets.

KILLED BY ELECTRICITY

Albany, October 20.—James B. McCaughan, janitor of the Home Savings Bank Building in this city, was slowly killed by electricity in the cellar of the building yesterday. Carrying an electric light, McCaughan went to the cellar to look for a leak in a water pipe. The cellar door was closed and when he stepped into the water an electric current from a supposed defect in the insulation of the wire passed through his body.

The janitor called for help and asked a cleaning woman who responded to turn off the switch. The woman ran to a police station and returned with a policeman, who removed the light from McCaughan's hand. The man was hurried to a hospital, where he died half an hour later. The policeman was shocked, but was not seriously injured.

Raincoats

That keep you warm, as well as shed snow and rain.

$5 to $22.50

Save Money by Buying Right.

WASH. OF RICHMOND.

125 West Broad Street.

DAUGHTER KEEPS MOTHER POSTED

Expected Coming of Her Secretly Reconciles Mrs. Geraghty and Family.

Newport, R. I., October 20.—Everything happening in the cottage of Mrs. and Mrs. Jack Geraghty and everything happening in the cottage of Mrs. Geraghty's mother, Mrs. Amos Tuck French, is known to each other, and there is no secret between them. The interchange of visits since the elopement and marriage of Mrs. Geraghty, formerly Miss Julia French, in August of 1911.

There is a certainty of feeling here by those who have never given up their interest in the elopement of Mrs. Geraghty and her husband with her family that there will be a reconciliation of the expectant young mother and her mother, Mrs. French, who is preparing to live in New York this winter, but not until after the arrival of a grandchild in the Newport Hospital between this and the end of the month.

Mrs. Geraghty is on the best of terms with her brothers, this is known, but neither the Frenches nor Geraghtys will talk on the subject.

Mrs. French and her daughter, Mrs. Geraghty, keep each other posted on what is happening, so Mrs. French knows just how her daughter is getting on. This secret messenger is not known, although efforts have been made to locate him by her physician, and all is ready for her leaving for the Vanderbilt ward at the Newport Hospital night or day. Everything for the expected heir is packed and ready to be taken to the hospital, where Mrs. Geraghty will be given exclusive care by two nurses.

From the home of Mr. Geraghty's parents in Prospect Hill Street, close to Bellevue Avenue, many pretty pieces of clothing have been sent to the expected heir.

Reports about Newport tell of Mrs. Samuel J. Wagstaff, of Babylon, L. I., being in sympathy with her sister, Mrs. Geraghty, and that a layette has been sent by Mrs. Wagstaff.

Geraghty has been and still is against a reconciliation, but mother love will find a way. Mr. French has been here and little since the marriage of his daughter, and is reported to blame the women of the family for permitting the elopement.

Mrs. French Vanderbilt, aunt of Mrs. Geraghty, has been very kind to her niece, sending her gifts, although, it is said, she would deny having done anything for Mrs. Geraghty.

Since the French-Geraghty elopement a more watchful eye has been maintained on the younger set, who seem to have gone stage crazy. They were about to present the germs of comic operas and musical comedies next Friday, but the parents of the young women stopped it.

GE'S ENTIRE FORTUNE

Alfred G. Vanderbilt Comes into Second Half of Patrimony.
 London, October 20.—Alfred G. Vanderbilt celebrated his thirty-fifth birthday and incidentally came into possession of the last half of his huge fortune to-day in London, where he has been for the last few days.

New York, October 20.—Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt is at present residing in England with his second wife, formerly Mrs. Smith H. McKim, to whom he was wedded a year ago.

Under the terms of his father's will Alfred Vanderbilt is to receive possession of the second half of his immense patrimony to-day, and it is estimated that when the clock struck midnight and the last second of yesterday had passed, Mr. Vanderbilt's wealth was increased by $30,000,000. Incidentally, the tiny son and heir born to Mr. Vanderbilt and his second wife a few weeks ago has also had his expectations increased by the same amount, inasmuch as Mrs. Elsie French Vanderbilt absolutely refused to accept any financial settlement at the time that she received her decree of absolute divorce from her husband.

Under the terms of Cornelius Vanderbilt's will Alfred was made the head of the family in place of his elder brother, Cornelius, who was cut off with $1,000,000, together with $300,000 which he received outright as a bequest from his grandfather. To his other children Cornelius Vanderbilt left the sum of $7,000,000 each. Alfred voluntarily gave to his elder brother $3,000,000, in order that they share might equal that of the others.

His own share he did not receive outright, but was allowed the income until five years ago, when he reached his thirtieth birthday, and came into control of the first half of his patrimony, still receiving the income from the remaining $30,000,000. To-day he has undisputed control of the entire fortune, which places him in charge of the second largest landed estate in Manhattan.

FIGHTING PROFANITY

Ten Thousand Men and Boys Parade on Protest.

MIGHTY MATHEWSON IS ONE BRIGHT STAR

Stands Out Pre-Eminent, Even Greater in Defeat Than in Victory—Preacher's Splendid Tribute to King of Baseball Pitchers.

Rev. Frederick F. Shannon, of New York, reviewing the world's series recently completed, finds in Christy Mathewson the one bright particular star of all the battles—the one man who stands out pre-eminent, even greater in defeat than he would have been in victory. He also finds a rebuke for those who would have drawn and quartered Fred Snodgrass for his error which cost Mathewson his game in the comment made upon the play by "Big Six." Read what the New York minister has to say:

"Now that it is all over, and fandom is recovering its senses, there is good reason to think that the most wonderful feature of the recent championship series manifested itself in the morning after the game." "We love the great American game because it thrills us even when it almost kills us. It is a fine, clean, scientific, manly sport and deserves the widespread popularity it enjoys."

"But the fine points of the game paid for the fine spirit of the acknowledged hero of the whole series—Christy Mathewson."

"It is an opportune time for us to say—and to say it out lustily and loudly—that the biggest thing about 'Big Six' is not his skill in the box, but his manliness."

"Christy Mathewson's nobility of spirit transfigures the Giants' defeat. He lends it a kind of afterglow which would have been absent from victory."

"The other afternoon, from Brooklyn Heights, I watched the sunset. The skyglowers over the lower New York resembled the gigantic trees stripped of their foliage. But wreathed in the soft splendor of the season that steals their verdure, even 'bare ruined boughe' have a stately bearing."

"So of Manhattan's towering trees of stone and steel, the glow of the setting sun. Out beyond Bedloe's Island, on and on beyond the last horizon's rim, Old Sol gently winked and blinked his drowsy golden eyes and dropped from sight. Then it was that my friend said, 'Now look for the afterglow!'"

"I waited for a few moments, and then the Western skies were putting on jewels of flame, red flame, rose flame, blue flame! And in the midst of the flame walked a vast angel of color, pinning bouquets of violet and hyacinth on the trembling bosom of the swift-coming night."

"And somehow, as I read Christy Mathewson's words in last Thursday's paper, the memory of that sunset came back again. They had something of the sunset's afterglow. They were shot through and through with a human mellowness and a kindly richness that had the heart with a kind of sun-glow enchantment."

"Let it be distinctly understood that I do not blame any one for the defeat."

"Mad as a hornet myself, and ready to blame everybody in the universe except Christy Mathewson, the heroic selfishness of this statement rebuked me to (yes, I'll say it, too, for I wasn't the only mourner in New York) tears."

"Why, to lose a game such as that, after he had done more than his share to win it, and then refuse to 'knock'—"

HAGGOOD TELLS WHY HE QUIT COLLIER'S

Editor Resigns Because Advertising Manager Asumed Too Much Authority in His Department.

New York, October 20.—Norman Haggood, who has announced his resignation from the editorship of Collier's Weekly, a post which he has held for more than nine years, has some further remarks to make on the circumstances attending his resignation.

They were to the effect that he had left the paper, not for political reasons, but because the advertising manager had had too much to say concerning the editorial policy of the publication. When asked to comment on that charge by his retiring editor, Mr. Collier refused to discuss the matter.

Mr. Collier, the owner of the Weekly, last night said that the reason for his resignation was his favorable attitude toward Governor Wilson, which Haggood later denied, giving another reason for the differences between them. Haggood said:

"Mr. Collier called me on the telephone last night, read a very complimentary little speech about me, and said all he was going to say."

"I observed that it was rumored he was going to make it seem a result of my attitude toward Governor Wilson. He energetically characterized that rumor as nonsense, and repeated that that was all he was going to say."

"Having done this, he saw the reporters and elaborately declared that politics was the cause. I should not have discussed named a pretext, and immediately after taking pains to assure me that he would not. It was only last Monday that he observed to me: 'I know I don't care any more about the Bull Moose than you do.' I care a good deal about the Bull Moose, as I do about the war, but he knows as well as I do what forced me to change."

"I should not have been working on had not Mr. Collier forced me to do so. I told Mr. Patterson, now general manager, on Thursday that if he and Mr. Collier kept quiet, I should, but warned him that if they tried to use any political blind I should tell something of the real situation."

"Of course, I do not mean to imply that there was not a sharp difference of opinion in the office about the political situation. There was. What I intended to say is that that was not Mr. Collier's motive. Mr. Collier himself was not the one who felt badly about my support of Governor Wilson."

"He merely took advantage of the situation produced by that difference of opinion, as it was the easiest method available to him at the time of overthrowing, already been clearly indicated that that authority was going to be doing it under the cloak of Roosevelt enthusiasm, which was not enough as applied to the associated editor, was in Mr. Collier. He was a clever way of bringing about a predetermined end."

"Undoubtedly, Mr. Mark Sullivan, the assistant editor of Collier's, was

Kelly Springfield
 NUF SED
Chemical Company
 629 E. Main St.
 Richmond Va.

Tyler
 See Our $5 School Suits

Packard
 MOTOR CARS
 Gordon Motor Co.

PHYSICIAN DECLARES TONSILS OVERBLAMED

He Does Not Know Their Use, but Is Certain They Are Not Disease Source.

Baltimore, October 20.—Dr. John N. Mackenzie, of Johns Hopkins University, comes to the defense of the tonsils and says in a general manner that they are removed without cause.

He says the post-tonsils are blamed for several ailments, including heart disease and rheumatism, with which they have no connection whatever, and parents sometimes take perfectly healthy children to a surgeon for a tonsil removing operation as a preventive for all sorts of ailments.

What the functions of the tonsils are, however, Dr. Mackenzie does not know, and he believes that in the present state of medical knowledge no one can with certainty point out the precise functions of the organ. He insists, however, that here he is in opposition to many doctors who cut out the tonsils as a general means of prophylaxis, that the tonsils are not the means of entrance of disease.

"The tonsil is not built anatomically," he says, "as a gateway of infection."

World's Record Made.
 New York, October 20.—A world's record with the twenty-one-pound shot was made by Patrick McDonald, of the Irish-American A. C., at Celler Park to-day, increasing the distance to 42 feet 4 inches. Louis Scott of the South Patterson A. C. ten-mile national champion, broke the American four-mile record, his time being 20:08 1-2.

NO BUILDING IN GARY LARGE ENOUGH TO ACCOMMODATE CROWD AT SERVICE.

Gary, Ind., October 20.—The funeral of Billy Ruth, the newsboy, who gave his crippled leg that skin might be grafted onto the body of Miss Ethel Smith, thereby saving her life, was held here to-day, and practically all of Gary and many from surrounding towns attended. No building was large enough to accommodate the crowd, and the services were held in the street. Four brass bands played funeral dirges, six uniformed policemen carried pail-bearers, and a fire department automobile was the funeral car, while a company of firemen carried the flowers. Mayor T. E. Krotts and the Councilmen, with bare heads, walked at the head of the procession, which conveyed the body to the railway depot, where it was put aboard a train for Rock Island, Ill.

Many women were in the line, which required more than an hour to pass the line, which had been placed in the middle of the street.

Miss Smith was not able to attend, but her father and brothers were in the audience.

KILLED BY ELECTRICITY

Albany, October 20.—James B. McCaughan, janitor of the Home Savings Bank Building in this city, was slowly killed by electricity in the cellar of the building yesterday. Carrying an electric light, McCaughan went to the cellar to look for a leak in a water pipe. The cellar door was closed and when he stepped into the water an electric current from a supposed defect in the insulation of the wire passed through his body.

The janitor called for help and asked a cleaning woman who responded to turn off the switch. The woman ran to a police station and returned with a policeman, who removed the light from McCaughan's hand. The man was hurried to a hospital, where he died half an hour later. The policeman was shocked, but was not seriously injured.

WOMAN WAS MURDERED

Three Physicians So Report After Holding Autopsy.

Topeka, Kan., October 20.—That Mrs. Mary Hayes Germalin was murdered and her body thrown in the Detroit River last August is the opinion of three Wellington (Kan.) physicians, who to-day filed with Governor Stubbs the report of an autopsy recently performed on the body of the dead woman.

Governor Stubbs has sent the findings to Governor Osborn, of Michigan, asking that an investigation be made.

ROBBERS GET RICH BOOTY

Slow Open Jewelry Store Safe and Secure $2,000.

Toledo, O., October 20.—For the third time in three months, cracksmen visited Huron about 1 o'clock this morning. After blowing the safe in Daniel Deibele's jewelry store, obtaining watches, jewels and silverware valued at about $2,000, they entered the office of the Huron Coin Company, where about $20 was taken. They stole a horse and buggy from Edward Cook's livery stable and escaped.

Mrs. Martin Simon and James Shimon, living near the coin company's office, saw the six men, and marked. Mrs. Simon notified Marshal Charles Fry, who hurriedly assembled a posse in automobiles, but the robbers could not be found. They are believed to have gone to Cleveland.